

WHO WE ARE:

The Fort Worth Air Power Council (FWAPC) is a 501(c)4 civil service organization that dates back to 1958 when General Curtis LeMay and Frank Kent, a local businessman, started the FWAPC supporting Carswell Air Force Base in Fort Worth, Texas. That base is now the Naval Air Station Joint Reserve Base Fort Worth.

SUPPORTING MORALE AND WELFARE PROGRAMS INCLUDING HOMECOMING EVENTS, TEAM BUILDING EVENTS AND MORE!

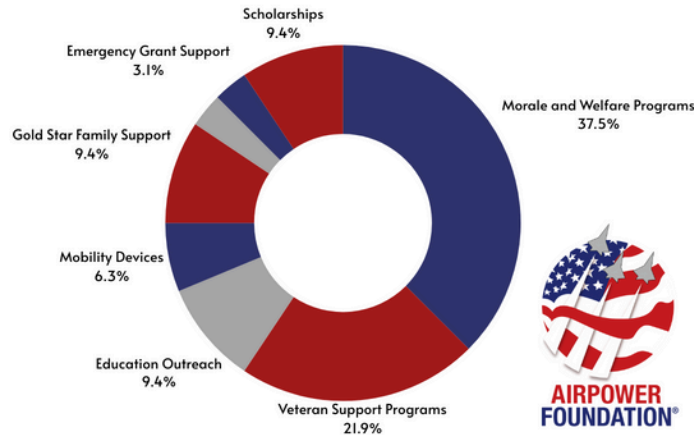

The FWAPC developed over the years as a 200-member organization and in 1999 the Fort Worth Air Power Council created the Fort Worth Airpower Foundation, a 501(c)(3) non-profit foundation, to raise money to support our military and their families.

WORKING TOGETHER FOR 25 YEARS TO SUPPORT SERVICE MEMBERS & MILITARY FAMILIES!

AIRPOWER FOUNDATION MISSION IN ACTION

With your donation to the Airpower Foundation, the all-volunteer board that includes members of the Fort Worth Air Power Council can continue to care for and directly support those who protect our freedoms here in North Texas.

Since 1958, FWAPC has continued to support our Veterans and provide volunteer help at the local VA. Our support extends to a number of surrounding military bases such as Fort Cavazos, Sheppard AFB, Brooke Army Medical Center and Fort Sill. Most importantly—our military leaders in Texas are well aware that the FWAPC is there for them, to assist in any way we can.
